Margaret Elaine Combs-Schilling (1949-2016), Columbia Professor of Anthropology and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, served first as Vice (Acting) Chair and then Chair of the Department of Anthropology from 1991 to 1995. Professor Combs-Schilling exerted particular care, and took special pride, in working with her graduate and undergraduate students. Indeed, though Elaine was an ambitious and accomplished scholar, she felt a deep spiritual connection to the vocation of teacher and transformed generations of Columbia students, helping them harness their intellectual potential and broaden their cultural perspective. Above all, she made them feel that their voices were worthy of being heard.
